Practice

Having an engaged Alumnus is one of the success factors for an educational institution. IMCC alumni are associated with the current students to help enrich and enhance their student life.

They help students in following ways

1. Alumni guide students preparing for recruitment interviews because they know what corporates expect from the freshers and groom them accordingly.
2. Alumni working in various domains of the industry are encouraged to provide project guidance to current students. This helps in better understanding of industry practices within the student community and strengthens alumni connections of the institute. Regular project meetings are held for the students to interact with project mentors and get their inputs.
